A Word to our Readers.

Our advertisers are so crowding us with their favors that we are forced, this morning, to turn off our subscribers with much less than the usual quantity and variety of reading matter. Editors are usually fond of making apologies of this sort, when they have a share in the proprietorship of the journal on which they labor; but the interest excited by the canvass in progress in Illinois has become so intense that we could be content to make almost any pecuniary sacrifice to still give the contest the prominence it deserves. But the business public, who make the Press and Tribune the medium through which they reach their customers, cannot be disappointed, and we must continue to publish all they send. One thing is certain: if appreciation of our paper, as an advertising medium, continues to keep pace with the increase of circulation, we shall, though reluctantly, be compelled to enlarge the size of our sheet. When the consolidation of the Press and the Tribune was effected, the conductors of the new journal determined, at whatever cost, to make it worthy of Chicago and the Northwest. We are grateful for the substantial support and solid encouragement that we are receiving.

Geo. D. Prentice.

This distinguished gentleman, well known as the editor of the Louisville Journal, is advertised to deliver three or four lectures in different parts of the State some time in November. Literary and other associations who may desire to secure his services in the desk will do well to address him early, that all his engagements may be filled during his promised visit. Mr. Prentice is a lecturer of uncommon brilliancy and power, and is intimately acquainted with Western tastes and Western wants—the latter a qualification too frequently overlooked. We bespeak for Mr. Prentice the warm reception that he deserves.

Household Edition of Waverley.

S. C. Griggs & Co., Booksellers, Nos. 59 and 61 Lake street, have sent us another instalment of the Household edition of the inimitable romances of Sir Walter Scott. The four volumes before us contain "The Betrothed," "The Highland Widow," and "Red Gauntlet." For convenience at the fireside, for the beauty and elegance of the typographical execution, and for capital taste in which everything in relation to this edition of Waverley is executed, the reading public are largely indebted to Messrs. Tickner & Fields of Boston, and they are recognizing that debt by the immense sale with which the work has been received. Subscribers will find the volumes above noticed ready for delivery by Messrs. Griggs & Co.

DeKalb in the Field.

SYCAMORE, DeKalb Co., Sept. 24.

Mitton Press and Tribune:

Yesterday was a grand day for the Republicans of DeKalb, being the day fixed for their County Convention, and also for hearing Hon. John F. Farnsworth, our candidate for Congress.

In the County Convention every town was represented by its full number of delegates, and there was not a single alternate. After two or three ballotings William Patten was nominated. Mr. Patten was elected in this district to the Legislature in 1854 by those who were opposed to the re-opening of the slavery agitation by the "ruthless hand" of Stephen A. Douglas. Mr. Patten voted for Trumbull for Senator, and he will now have the pleasure of using for Lincoln. We shall elect him by between fifteen hundred and two thousand majority. Henry Safford, of South Grove, was nominated for Sheriff, and Lorenzo Whitteman for Coroner. The ticket will give very general satisfaction. Mr. Patten's principal competitors in the Convention were Thos. S. Terrey and H. S. Camplin. Mr. Terry received a very handsome support from the DeKalb interest, he being favorable to a removal of the county seat; but had he been nominated he would have been cheerfully supported by the party in the country, for most seemed to feel that this question can not be reached in the next Legislature. This question, therefore, will not be agitated in this county this fall. Such an idea that the Republicans of DeKalb desire their Representative to have in mind is Abraham Lincoln and him elected, and they expect him (and so expressed themselves in their Convention) to refrain from agitating in the least manner either the question of the removal of the county seat, of a division of the county, or any kindred question calculated to excite local feeling.

Last evening Mr. Farnsworth spoke in the Court House to an excessively crowded audience. Mr. F. did himself great credit by this effort. In a clear and masterly manner he analyzed the dogma—or, I should perhaps say, dissected the corpse of "Pop'lar Sovereignty," and by

"Confirmation strong As proofs of holy writ,"

he demonstrated the fact that the principle of self government is simply the principle of the enslavement of one man by another. Mr. Douglas' "unfriendly" method of annulling the decision of the Supreme Court received an unfriendly blow from Mr. Farnsworth, who in an exceedingly unfriendly manner quoted Mr. Douglas' most exceedingly and extraordinarily friendly indorsement of the decision in his Springfield speech. Mr. F. was peculiarly happy in exposing the ridiculousness of the territorial squatters being able by "unfriendly" demonstrations to prohibit an institution around which Mr. Douglas has himself helped to throw the protecting ægis of the Constitution. In a word, he proved to the entire satisfaction of his audience, which satisfaction was repeatedly attested by loud applause, that Popular Sovereignty was a sham.

Mr. Farnsworth gave the Dodger some good hits on the subject of introducing the question of negro equality in this canvass, which, said Mr. F., was a Republican in the State advocates. He expressed, too, the meanness of Douglas in introducing the side issue of negro suffrage, which is nowhere advocated by any Republican speakers or organs. You will bear in mind, Messrs. Editors, that the Douglas organ here takes the broad ground of "negro equality," and advocates the "right of the negroes to vote and have representatives in Congress." Considering this fact, you can imagine how pleasantly the speech must have fallen upon the ears of the Douglasites among us who have been retailing their master's falsehoods about Farnsworth's odious doctrines."

With a glowing tribute to Lincoln, Mr. Farnsworth closed. Please set it down that the Republicans of De Kalb county will vote for Lincoln, and for Farnsworth, and for Patten—the one an old Whig, the second an old Liberty Party man, and the third an old Democrat—and they are totally unable to see, as Mr. Douglas and his organs can, wherein they at all differ on the great vital question of the canvass, opposition to slavery extension.

Yours truly, I. L. E.

Pure Milk! Pure Milk!

THE UNDERSIGNED IS RECEIVING daily, and offering for sale, PURE MILK from the cows owned by the following named men in Kane and DeKalb counties, Ill.: Messrs. Wm. Hall, Jr., Batavia; H. Smith, S. Ballard, Geneva; G. Wilcox, Clintonville; A. J. Gault, A. C. Gault, A. C. Hawley, A. C. Sherman, H. Sherman, J. H. McLean, Aurora; and others. The above dairymen are considered as being among the best and most reliable in the country, and are perfectly honorable men, and any one who will not believe my statement to be true, can call on them and satisfy himself. And we pledge ourselves to furnish the best of milk during the season, or no sale. Orders may be left at the office of Messrs. Ogden & Sherman, No. 75 Lake street, or at my residence, corner of Peoria and Randolph streets. Chicago, May 17th, 1858. I. H. WARNER.

Warner will accomplish what the above modest forces of know that their dairies are kept as well and healthy as those of any men in the country, and are inclined to think that the owners would not, under any circumstances, be guilty of selling impure milk. And we are sure that Mr. Warner will furnish none but pure Milk from the cows mentioned, nothing but pure Milk as they receive from the dairies. A. J. GOULD.

Mr. I. H. Warner: Yes, I am more than willing to add my testimony to the evidence of Elder Joslyn, Rev. Coley, and Dr. Sanford, in favor of your Milk.

I have known those who furnish the milk you sell for a number of years, from the start, and I know that they were "something" like myself, on what we term the "anti-humbug," but what is now their favorite word, "fraud" principle. They are men who will not cheat anybody, and retain that monetary appendage called the "dollar" when they come honestly by it. Their cows are fine animals and appurtenances exhibit proof that they are kept in a manner that is considered a credit to the owners. I have seen the C. & G. C. milk, and I have seen Warner's milk, and I say to any one who is in search of pure milk, that I can find none better than Warner's, and I have no hesitancy in saying that I shall continue to use it myself, and recommend it to my friends.

I. B. Tholt myself responsible for no milk sold by me. That can be had of wagons No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 at 75 cts. per can. ISAAC H. WARNER.

The Primary Meetings.

Republicans will bear in mind that their meetings for the selection of delegates to the County Convention to nominate candidates for Representatives to the Legislature, Sheriff, and Coroner, are held this evening, at half past seven o'clock. Let there be a full attendance, and let each voter understand he is making a ticket to elect Old Abe.

Eighth Congressional District.

We are more than pleased to learn from the Belleville Advocate, that John Baker, Esq., of that city, has yielded to the solicitations of his Republican and Old Line Whig friends throughout the VIIIth District to become their candidate for Congress. Mr. Baker is well known in this part of the State as an orator, a scholar, and a gentleman whose character slander itself has never reached. He is a native of Illinois, studied at McKendree College, (Lebanon, St. Clair county,) and has practiced law at Belleville most of the time since his graduation. We believe he will be triumphantly elected, and we know his nomination will strengthen the Legislative ticket in every county of the District.

Time for Consolation to be Offered.

The unexampled desperation with which Mr. Douglas is fighting his battle in this State attracts the attention of politicians all over the Union. They wonder—even those who are wishing for his success—at the boldness and mendacity of his tactics; but they do not recognize the fact that he is fighting, not for another term in the Senate merely, but for his political existence. His power in Illinois overthrown, and his influence with the Democracy of the North crippled, he not only loses caste at home, but is deprived at once of all the channels he ever possessed of gratifying his ambition in the Presidency of the United States. In a word, overtaken by defeat, he sinks below the political horizon, to be seen or heard of no more.

We are so confident of his overthrow, that we are only prevented by the heinousness of his political acts, from offering him the consolations which are awarded to a fallen enemy. But in his case, justice cannot come too soon; and while he is suffering from the righteous indignation of a people whom he has outraged and betrayed, any condolence offered to alleviate his misfortune would seem like an endorsement of his treason. We refrain from the mockery, wondering why the patience of his constituents has endured so long.

Incendiarism.

Calhoun county, in this State, appears to be suffering from a gang of incendiaries. On Saturday night, the 11th inst., the store of Messrs. A. & J. Rockwell, Dow Flats, in which was also kept the Post Office, was set on fire and burned to the ground, very few of the goods being saved. There was insurance on the house and stock, to the amount of $3,000, in the Illinois Mutual Insurance Company.

On Monday morning last, the store and dwelling of N. J. Wooden at Hamburg were fired and consumed, the proprietor saving almost nothing. There was no insurance on the buildings or goods. The Post Office was kept in the store. Alton Courier, 23d.

West Side Improvements.—A day or two since in the course of quite an extended drive through the West Division, we had occasion to see how much has been done, is doing and promises to be done in that Division, in city improvements. And as the first great improvement, we noticed hundreds of dwellings of all classes, newly finished, or being completed, and numberless others just begun.

There are several whole rows of new tenements, one of eleven separate neat comfortable looking two story cottages. These will all tell on the question of rent, and hence on the welfare of our city, for starting with the statement no one can deny, that we should and shall in time be able to live as cheaply in Chicago as in any other city in the United States of parallel growth and prosperity, the sooner we arrive at the point of giving to our citizens, our mechanics, our working men, houses cheap but good, and also for our salaried men, the sooner we shall enter upon an era of greater stability, a larger and wider increase of our manufactures, and the general benefit of our entire community. And the large accession the present season to the number of cheap homes is a long stride in the right direction.

The West Side is doing much in street improvements. It is sending far and wide into the prairie the dwellings that adorn and beautify the suburbs, so far out that "Bull's Head," not long since the Ultima Thule of explorers, is now even central. And the necessity thus created is being met in improving the streets. West Randolph street is being McAdamized in a most substantial manner, from Halsted street to Union Park, by Messrs. Colby & Bilthorpe. These gentlemen have made a hand some and creditable job thus far. The stone is taken from their quarry on the ridge, just south of Lake street, and immediately without the city limits, the kind and quality of the stone being the same as the material of the Second Presbyterian Church—Rev. Dr. Patterson's. It is a very hard and compact stone, and abounds in the petroleum, or rock-oil deposits. It exists in inexhaustible quantities, and is now being worked from three quarries, two belonging to Messrs. Colby & Bilthorpe, and one to Reuben Taylor Esq. The material is being extensively introduced for basements, and it is in contemplation to use it for entire structures another season.

For preparing the stone for McAdamizing purposes, Messrs. C. & B. have at their quarry, in operation a machine which with ease performs daily the work of sixty stone breakers of the best Bridewell pattern, and is a wonder in its line. It is driven by steam, and crunches up the stones, spitting them out at the rate of twenty cords per day, and better broken than it can be done by hammers. This machine is the fruit of the genius of Ires Scoville and A. C. Bilthorpe, and will net them a fortune.

Necessity, that "mother of invention," spurred them to invent just the machine they required, and, their very first machine is now busy at work on the Randolph street contract. It was built at the Eagle Works. It has been patented, and is receiving much attention and the unqualified admiration of practical men. It value will be seen when it is understood that the usual expense for breaking a cord of McAdamizing stone has been three dollars, a work done by the machine with profit at fifty cents.

Messrs. Colby & Bilthorpe are to undertake the East Madison street improvement, and claim that with their machine they have introduced a new era in McAdamizing.

Resolved, That we have heard with a lively sense of pleasure of the appointments of our worthy fellow citizen Dr. J. W. Beason, to the Professorship of Anatomy in the Louisville University, and

Resolved, That we congratulate the Faculty of that Medical School upon their good fortune in securing the valuable services of our talented brother and fellow member.

Resolved, That while we regret to part with Dr. Beason, we beg to assure him that he takes with him to his new home and vocation, our warmest regards and best wishes for his success and welfare.

Not as a society, but as an individual, we unanimously pass a resolution of our own, hearty wishing our good friend Dr. Beason, all imaginable business in life.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Correspondence in Relation to the Cable.

A CARD TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, Sept. 24.

Accompanying this, I beg to hand you copies of recent communications from the Honorary Directors of the Atlantic Telegraph Company and myself to Mr. De Sauniy, the Chief Electrician at the Trinity Bay office. Mr. De Sauniy's answers will be furnished for publication without unnecessary delay. I deem it proper to state as the result of my inquiries concerning the dispatch of Thursday from Trinity Bay announcing the resumption of perfect signals through the Cable from Valentia—that the announcement was made through a dispatch from the Superintendent of the land lines in Newfoundland to the Associated Press, and was unquestionably reported in good faith, but as the information has not been confirmed by Mr. De Sauniy, who alone has full knowledge of all the facts, I regard the statements as premature; and it is to be feared that the shore end of the Cable at Valentia must be taken up for a distance of several miles, which, by reason of bad weather, or other causes, may occupy from three to four weeks. The depth of water within 200 miles of the Irish coast ranges from about 50 to 600 fathoms, and it is not doubted that even 250 miles of the cable could be raised if necessary.

Respectfully,
CYRUS W. FIELD.

New York, Sept. 24th, 10 A. M.

To C. V. De Lacy, Trinity Bay—Great dissatisfaction exists in this country with the reserve maintained in Trinity Bay in contrast with the frank communications from Valentia to the British public. Please give us daily information of the state of the telegraph under your charge.

[Signed] Peter Cooper,
Cyrus W. Field,
Wilson G. Hunt,
E. M. Archibald,

[Taken to the offices of the other honorary members in New York, but they could not be seen, hence the absence of their signatures.]

New York, Sept. 24, 12 M.

To De Lacy, Trinity Bay—Despatches from you and from Dr. McKay are contradictory. Now, please give me explicit answers to the following questions: 1st. Are you now, or have you been within three or four days, receiving distinct signals from Valentia? 2d. Can you send a message, long or short, to the directors at London? 3d. If you answer no to the above, please state when, for the last time, communications have varied essentially since the 1st of September?

[Signed,] Cyrus W. Field.

$10,000 in Gold from Pike's Peak.

Leavenworth City Weekly Gazette, 18th.]

Yesterday $10,000 in gold dust arrived from Pike's Peak. One man brought in $6,000 as the result of a few weeks' work. A small boy had $1,000, which he said he "dug here and found," and the little fellow says he "can get all he wants."

These statements are reliable. Parties are daily returning for winter provisions, and Mr. Jones, an old mountaineer, expended $1,000 worth of the shining dust in Independence last week for his winter outfit. Mr. Jones is well known in this vicinity, and being an old Californian, his statements that the Kansas mines are far ahead of those of California must be believed.

A New Roorback—These Poor Persecuted Douglasites in Moultrie Co.

The Chicago Times of yesterday is an elongated spasm. It contains two columns of correspondence, and an editorial under a staring caption, on an alleged outrage perpetrated by Mr. Lincoln and his friends at Sullivan, Moultrie County, last Monday. The allegations are: 1st, That Mr. Lincoln made an appointment to speak at Sullivan on the same day with Douglas; 2d, That he agreed to postpone his meeting until three o'clock; 3d, That his procession started for Freeland's Grove where his platform had been erected, at twenty minutes past two; and 4th that in marching to the grove the Republican band wagon tried to pass through the street where portion of the Douglas crowd were standing.

The supplement to the story is that the Douglasites wanted to turn in and whip the Lincoln procession, but Douglas restrained their ferocity by tremendous personal effort.

Before making other comment on this tragic affair we will point out its principal fable, which will go far towards elucidating the entire roorback. According to the Times, Douglas said in his Sullivan speech, "My appointment for to-day was made as long ago as July 29th, and has been published in "the newspapers ever since." To this we reply that Mr. Douglas had no appointment at Sullivan that Mr. Lincoln could have been aware of, and that it has not been published in his list of meetings in the Chicago Times, at all. We think it has not been published in the State Register. It certainly was not printed in the Register's list of Douglas' September and October appointments as it first appeared; and we know that it has not appeared in the Times' list once during the campaign. It cannot be produced, and Douglas knew it when he made his statement. The question arises, how did the Sullivan meeting happen to be omitted in the two central organs of the Douglasites, to which everybody referred for the official list, when all the other appointments were regularly printed? Also, how does it happen that the Sullivan meeting came on the 20th and the Danville meeting on the 21st, with no day intervening, when the speaker advertised himself for only three meetings a week in all other parts of the State—more especially when Sullivan happens to be sixteen or twenty miles from any railroad station. The fact is Douglas had no appointment at Sullivan until he found that Lincoln had one. Mr. Lincoln's was made and published in the PRESS AND TRIBUNE three weeks ago. It was not known in Chicago that Douglas was going to Sullivan at all until the day of the debate. Mr. Douglas said he "regretted that the appointments "should have come in collision." No doubt he did.

The balance of the Times' story undoubtedly contains as much truth as this. Its correspondent is the same low-lived fellow who mutilates Lincoln's speeches into suitable shape for the readers of the Times, and he is to be believed just as far as the affidavits of respectable men will interfere to sustain his assertions.

But, supposing the rest of the Sullivan fable were true—would it not be an eloquent comment on the stereotyped braggadocio that "the people are all for Douglas?" Two years ago the vote of Moultrie County stood: Fremont, 152; Buchanan, 434; Fillmore, 305. Now if they are all for Douglas why did "the people" suffer such an indignity as the Times parades in its columns of yesterday morning? Most lamb-like have the Douglasites become in the neighborhood of Sullivan—county of Moultrie! Whenever the Buchaneers advertise a meeting either here or elsewhere, the Douglas men organize to break it up with a row. They would serve the Republicans the same way if they dared. What, then, is the explanation of their gentlemanly behavior at Sullivan last Monday? There is an incongruity somewhere of special significance.

Another Douglasism.

What said Lincoln at Charleston? Why, that the negro was created by the Almighty the inferior and subordinate of the white race, and he should not be made even a voter in Illinois; that brought to be kept in the condition of subordination and, sure as God is God, as he shall wear a black face!—Chicago Times, 24th.

What shall be said of the public journal which makes an assertion like this, when its own columns four days before contained what Mr. Lincoln did say, in the following language:

"I will say in addition that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I suppose will ever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality; and inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of the superior position being assigned to the white man. I say in this connection that I do not perceive, however, that because the white man is to have the superior position, it requires the negro should be denied everything.—Chicago Times, Sept. 21—Report Charleston Speech.

If the Times had not published the Charleston debate, or if it had not published this paragraph, we can easily conceive how it might manufacture the statement above taken from its issue of yesterday, but with the evidence of its falsehood in its own columns we cannot see how a sober man would so far risk disgusting his own readers. But, hurrah for Douglas!

A Question Asked and Answered.

At the Charleston debate while Douglas was trying to explain away his agency in striking out the submission clause in the Toombs bill, he said:

THE QUESTION.

"Here is the polite language of Senator Trumbull applied to his colleage when he was a hundred miles off. Why didn't he apply it in the Senate, and strain the lie down my throat, when I did deny it to Bigler and make him take it back? You all remember that Bigler assembled me when I was engaged in that hand to hand fight resisting a scheme to put a constitution upon the people of Kansas against their will. Bigler then assailed me, and I turned upon him and made him take the back track and explain his conduct to the country, and there was not an honest man in America that would pretend it was true. Trumbull was then present face to me. Why didn't he then rise and make the charge, and say that he would cram the lie down my throat?

In anticipation of this very question being asked by somebody, Trumbull gave a very plain, simple answer to it in his speech made at Alton, Aug. 26. Douglas read that speech, and that answer, but Douglas like ignored both, and impudently propounds it just as if Trumbull had never explained why he did not expose him in the Senate at the time. Here is what he said at Alton:

THE ANSWER.

I knew at the time this statement was made, that I had urged the very objection to the Toombs bill two years before, that it did not provide for the submission of the Constitution. You will find my remarks made on the 23 of July, 1856 in the appendix to the Congressional Globe of that year, p. 1079, urging that very objection. Do you ask why I did not expose him at the time? I will tell you—Mr. Douglas was then doing good service against the Lecompton iniquity. The Republicans were then engaged in a hand to hand fight with the National Democracy, to prevent the bringing of Kansas into the Union as a slave State against the wishes of its inhabitants, and, of course, I was unwilling to turn our guns from the common enemy to strike at him.

We strongly suspect that this answer is complete and satisfactory.

Result of the Maine Election.

The Kennebec Journal has Maine election returns embracing the whole State with the exception of thirty-two small plantations, which last year gave in the aggregate 668 votes for Morrill, (Rep.,) and 393 for Smith, (Adm.) The general footings, thus far, stand as follows:

Morrill	91,132
Smith	51,101
Morrill's majority	40,031

The returns yet to be received will change these figures a trifle, and may increase the aggregate vote to 134,000.

In the Legislature the Senate will consist of thirty Republicans and one Democrat. The House, according to the latest reckoning, will contain two hundred and three Republicans and forty-eight Administrationists.

The Horse Show at Mendota.

A passion for horse-flesh is among the most excusable human weaknesses. We do not mean that we could person the imitator of the example of the French roues, who have been regaling themselves with savory stews, of which the meat of some dam'not Neapolitan horse formed a part secondary only to the garlic; who have been luxuriating on "porter-house steaks" and sirloin roasts" once the property and an indispensable part of a favorite saddle-nag or a 2.50 roadster. Tastes not formed in Tartary or suggested by the incidents of a siege, a Russian campaign, or a winter's experience with Fremont among the peaks and gorges of the Rocky Mountains, would certainly shrink before a dinner commencing with a course of horse-head or horse-tail soup, and proceeding onward through the carte in which "roasted-horse," "boiled horse," "horse-kidney devilled," and "salt-horse" were gravely set down as prime dishes to be tasted and tried. We have not that gustatory catholicity which could abide the trial of horse-meat in any of the shapes in which Mesopotamia, the French philosophers, have prepared it; but we love horse-flesh nevertheless. We mean that horse-flesh which lives, which has a proper mouth, a high head, a short tail, an obedient disposition, a good appetite and a 2 40 gait with two in the buggy! We vote emphatically for whatever promises to improve the beauty, quicken the speed or increase the docility of the species to which that sort of horse-flesh belongs. But horse-flesh has its dangers as well as delights. Just now the country is afflicted with a horse-mania. It breaks out in the shape of Horse-Shows every Autumn, here, there and every where. Governors, judges, senators, congressmen, clergymen, editors and other riff-raff of that sort assemble in crowds, supported and backed up by farmers, breeders, horse-fanciers and sporting men, to glorify the Horse. Mr. EVERETT, the American Cicero, has by this time, got a horse oration committed to memory, and we may expect him to "speak his piece" wherever and whenever called upon. Gentlemen who wield the quill wax warm with the theme, when Horse is under discussion, and drive through columns of adjectives and expletives with the confidence of old Jehu himself. We expect to see it in the public prints that Rev. Mr. Blazer wears a jockey cap, a cut-away coat with brass buttons, and corduroy pants, in his pulpit, and that his illustrations of the text are drawn from the stable and the half-mile track. The ladies, young and old, have caught the prevailing disease; and never seem so much delighted, dear souls, as when flourishing their perfumed handkerchiefs in honor of the winning nag as he shows his mettle in sweeping down the home stretch. This is all very well, but there may be too much of a good thing. In New England, it is to be feared that the Morgan mania is taking the direction of the Morus Multicaulis insanity, and that as the breeds of horses improve, the morals of their owners degenerate. Certain it is that the passion for horse-flesh in the "land of steady habits" and parts thereto adjacent, has developed tendencies which may excite alarm. Every village boasts of its track where "fast colts" go; and more than that, half the talk of the young men is of the stable and the course. In some of the rural districts, to be the owner of the speediest Morgan—Sherman, Gifford or Blackhawk—is an honor greater than the possession of any art which may improve and benefit mankind. For this result the frequent Horse Shows and Fairs are responsible. Our friends at the West who do not desire to see the Racing established as one of the standard national sports, must have a care that in exhibitions of their favorite animals, they do not make speed alone the quality which wins applause. There are other things about the Horse more valuable than the muscle, which, after long training, can carry him a mile in 2.30. The endurance which will bear any service in an emergency; the kindness of disposition which makes the horse so valuable a servant of man, and beauty of form—always the study of sculptors and painters—are worthy of a thought. Let us then entreat our neighbors at Mendota not to allow their Fair to degenerate into a series of scrub races, in which the meanest and homeliest animals may win the prize and carry off the applause. Let them not inaugurate here the New England system, which, in spite of Mr. EVERETT and Gov. BANKS, is full of evil fruit.

The Recaptured Africans.

Concerning the recaptured Africans of the slaver Echanis, the N. Y. Journal of Commerce says, that after arriving at their destination, the negroes will not all be landed at one place, but distributed in small detachments at several points along the coast, whence they will be sent off to the receptacles for newly arrived emigrants recently prepared at Careysburg, and other salubrious points, for settlement in the interior. As it is not probable that more than three weeks will be consumed in reaching the African coast, the negroes will have been absent from home about three months; a period so brief that they will not be liable to climatic fevers. During the voyage they will occupy the spar deck of the frigate, so lately filled by the telegraphic cable, and be served with food, and sleep on blankets on the deck, as is customary with lower class passengers.

Wine in Connecticut.

It is stated in the Hartford Times that General Jarvis Case, of Canton, has some wine made of the native white grape, a very clear, pure article, which is superior to Longworth's Catawba, and is as sparkling, when properly bottled, and he has also dark wines made of native grapes, of very superior quality. D. & S. Case, of the same town, have in their cellars a number of hogsheads of native wines, three and four years old. A great deal of wine is called wine in Connecticut is only a syrup of grapes, a pleasant drink when reduced with water, but not properly called wine. Most of the article which is sold for communion purposes is of this sort. So much attention is now given to the manufacture of grape wines and syrups that the fox grape, which was a drug in the market a few years since at $1 per bushel, now meets with a ready sale at $2. The native wine of fair quality sells at $3 to $5.50 per gallon.

International Bridge at Buffalo.

The Buffalo Courier says the International Bridge will now surely be built, as the Company ask of Buffalo no further guarantee than that of $50,000, to make up the deficiency of the annual interest, at six per cent, on two and a quarter millions. The inhaler bridge of Mr. Roebling is to be constructed. That gentleman offers to raise the money in London upon the assurance given by the railway contracts for an annual rent of $100,000, and the city's guarantee to make good any deficiency in the revenue of the bridge to increase that sum to $150,000. The city takes no risk on account of the railway companies. On the other hand, it has all the benefit to be derived from the carriage and foot travel, and from any new contract that may be made with the Great Western, or with any other than the Niagara and Detroit Rivers, and the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway Companies, while the revenue accruing from these sources may diminish the city's liability below $50,000, and possibly cancel it altogether.

Horrible Cruelty.

A Texas correspondent of the Louisville Journal relates a horrible story of the inhuman treatment of a soldier who deserted from the Second Cavalry, and was arrested and brought back to Fort Smith, Texas. Harrington was his name, and he was a native of Louisville. The man who arrested him compelled him to travel some thirty hours without giving him a morsel to eat; the officer to whom he was surrendered made him march twelve miles further, fasting, dragging a ball and chain, and with hand-cuffs. The next day he was tied to the tail of a wagon, and followed one beat over an extremely rough road; his ball and chain dropping into deep holes would jerk him off his feet, and bring him down upon the food box on his breast, hanging by his wrists. This treatment was continued until he died.

Outfitting for the Kansas Gold Mines.

Kansas City is the chief point for procuring outfits for the mines, and the merchants of that place are driving a brisk business in supplying the demands of the numerous companies who are daily starting for the new El Dorado. Three companies from Arkansas started from that point a few days since, taking with them provisions for six months.

☞ At Cleveland, a few days since, a man named Geo. Stedman was fatally stabbed by a fourteen-year-old boy named Tibbetts. Tibbetts stabbed his brother about a year ago.

New Publications.

COMMENTARIES ON THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES. With a Preliminary Review of the Constitutional History of the Colonies and States before the Adoption of the Constitution. By Joseph Story, LL.D., Dane Professor of Law in Harvard University. Two vols. 8vo. New York: Hurd & Houghton; Cambridge: Riverside Press. For sale by D. B. Cook & Co., Chicago.

Competent critics having long ago passed unanimous judgment upon this important contribution to the judicial literature of the country, we do not feel called upon to allude to its special merits; but it does seem to us an opportune moment to invite a comparison between the views of the Constitution here laid down—views in entire harmony with those held equally by the fathers of the Republic and by the most distinguished of our later jurists and statesmen—and the pro-slavery heresies which, originating with John C. Calhoun, and revived and enlarged by Douglas and his compeers in iniquity, have culminated in the Dred Scott decision. As an expounder of the Constitution, Judge Story was not second to Webster, and in the general application of constitutional and legal principles, he both from the nature of his profession, if not by genius, his superior.

As incidental to the "true intent and meaning" of the Constitution, the sphere and powers of the Supreme Court, so far as they relate to that instrument, are pointed out with great clearness. Neither Chief Justice Story nor any contemporary jurist ever thought of denying the power of Congress over Slavery in the Territories. Even a Judge of the Supreme Court never dreamed of asserting the equality of Slavery with Freedom before the "ruthless hand" of Senator Douglas struck down the Missouri Compromise. These Commentaries throw a flood of light upon all the constitutional questions now in controversy, and no champion of the true principles on which the government is built can afford to be without their aid.

The publishers have done their part by furnishing type, paper and binding to correspond with the sterling value of the work.

THE EXILES OF FLORIDA; Or, the Crimes committed by our Government against the Maroons, who fled from South Carolina, and other Slave States, seeking Protection under Spanish laws. By Joseph R. Gidddings. Cloth, 4 d by Follett, Foster & Co., Cincinnati. Sold by W. B. Keen, Chicago.

In this volume Mr. Giddings has supplied an important chapter in the history of the country, and especially in the history of the remorseless Slave Power, by which the Government has been so long wielded. Everybody was long ago aware that the war with the Seminole Indians of Florida had drained some forty or fifty millions of dollars from the Treasury, but few knew, until Mr. Giddings spread the evidence before the public, what atrocious injustice those hunted refugees had suffered at our hands.

The admirable review of the work which we recently copied from the Atlantic Monthly precludes the necessity of going into the subject at large now; but we cannot refrain from giving a single extract, describing a scene of horror that has few parallels save in barbarian or savage warfare. It will be remembered that the great sin of these people was, that originally their ancestors had escaped from slavery, and that they continued to welcome refugees from bondage in the neighboring States. Difficulties had commenced previous to the war of 1812 with Great Britain. A truce had occurred, but it proved to be short lived. After the peace with Great Britain in 1815, a portion of the army was stationed on the southern frontier of Georgia, and the officers soon took strong ground against the exiles. They were frequently the subject of communication between Gen. Gaines and the Executive. "Of these communications the exiles were ignorant. They continued in peaceful retirement, cultivating the earth, and gaining a support for themselves and families. In the autumn of 1815 they gathered their crops, and provided for the support of the aged and infirm, as well as for their children. They carefully nursed the sick; they buried their dead; they lived in peace, and enjoyed the fruits of their labor. The following spring and summer found them in this enviable condition."

At length, (May 16, 1816) orders were issued by Gen. Jackson, directing Gaines to destroy the "Negro Fort," as it was called, and return the stolen negroes and property to their rightful owners. Upon the receipt of this order, Gen. Gaines detached Col. Duncan L. Clinch, with his regiment, two pieces of artillery, and five hundred friendly Creeks to carry out the instructions of Gen. Jackson. The result of the expedition is thus given by Mr. Giddings:

On the morning of the 27th July, Loomis, with his boats, ascended the river and cast anchor opposite the fort, while Col. Clinch and the Great Indians took possession so as to cut off retreat by land. The cannonade was resumed, and the land and naval forces of the United States were engaged in throwing shot and shell for the purpose of murdering those friendless exiles, those women and children who had committed no other offence than that of having been born of parents who, a century previously, had been held in bondage. Mothers and children now shrieked with terror as the roar of cannon, the whistling of balls, the explosion of shells, the war-whoop of the savage, the groans of the wounded and dying, foretold the sad fate which awaited them. The stout-hearted old men cheered and encouraged their friends, declaring that death was to be preferred to slavery.

The struggle, however, was not protracted. The cannon balls not taking effect upon the embankments of earth, they prepared their furnaces and commenced the fire of hot shot, directed at the magazine. This mode proved more successful. A ball fully heated reached the powder in the magazine. The smallsize of the fort, and the great number of people in it, rendered the explosion unspeakably fatal. Many were entirely buried in the ruins, others were killed by falling timbers, while many bodies were torn in pieces. Limbs were separated from bodies to which they had been attached, and death, in all its horrid forms, was visible within that doomed fortress.

Monette says, "The scene in the fort was beyond description. Nearly three fifths of the inmates were involved in indiscriminate destruction; not one-sixth of the whole escaped. Piles of the wounded, the dying and the dead, with the shouts and yells of the Indians, rendered the scene horrible beyond description."

Of 334 souls within the fort, 270 were instantly killed; while of the 60 who remained, only three escaped without injury. Two of the survivors—one negro and one Indian—were selected as supposed chiefs of the allied forces within the fort. They were delivered over to the Indians who accompanied Col. Clinch, and were massacred within the fort, in the presence of our troops; but no report or record shows the extent of torture to which they were subjected.

In this massacre, nearly every exile resident upon the Appalachicola River, including women and children, perished or was re-enslaved. Their homes were left desolate; their plantations and their herds of cattle and horses became the property of those who first obtained possession of them. Probably one-third of all the exiles at that time resident in Florida perished in this massacre or were re-enslaved by Col. Clinch; yet the atrocious character of the transaction appears to have attracted very little attention at the time. Gen. Jackson was popular as a military officer, and the administration of Mr. Madison was regarded with general favor. No member of Congress protested against the transaction, or made known its barbarity to the people, while the slave-holders waxed their ingenuity, and brought all their rhetoric to bear, in vindication of those concerned in the outrage.

SPURGEON'S GEMS: Being Brilliant Passages from the Discourses of the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. Published by Sheldon, Blakeman & Co., New York; Gould & Lincoln, Boston. Sold by W. B. Keen, Chicago.

There are some fine passages in this volume, but we cannot be permitted to express our conviction that, if these are his highest efforts, Mr. Spurgeon is by no means a genius of the first order. Compared with Henry Ward Beecher, he appears exceedingly shallow, coarse and common-place. He possesses great volubility of speech, overflows with scriptural quotation and has the current technology of his own theological platform, but we cannot conceive that he should charm a cultivated intellect or touch the heart that craves deep and fervent communion with the divine Source of its life. Doubtless there is a strong personal magnetism about the man, else he would not be followed by such consistent crowds; yet it is safe to say he will never take rank with the old English divines whose noble writings shed so enduring a lustre upon the literature no less than upon the Christian records of this country.

TRUE TO THE LAST; Or, Alone on the Wide Wide Sea. By A. S. Roe. Published by Derby & Jackson, New York. Sold by D. B. Cooke & Co., and also by W. B. Keen, Chicago.

AGNES. A Novel. By the author of "Ida May." Published by Phillips, Sampson & Co., Boston. Sold by S. D. Green, Chicago.

We place the titles of these volumes together for the reason that, without possessing much resemblance either in respect to plot or style, they are both fair specimens of mediocre fictions of domestic manufacture. They will, however, please a large class of persons not over-critical or fastidious in their tastes, as have the previous works of their authors.

SHAMAN IN PURSUIT OF FREEDOM; Or, the Branded Hand. Published by Thatcher & Hutchinson, New York. Sold by W. B. Keen, Chicago.

This volume professes to give the observations of an Arab traveller from Algeria, who, looking through Mussulman spectacles, makes some rather shrewd observations upon our "domestic institutions," slavery included. The writer, however, is clearly a Yankee, who has chosen this mode to bring his views before the public. There are some good hits in the book, but the satire is on the whole too labored to be popular or effective.

THE ARTS OF BEAUTY; Or, Secrets of a Lady's Toilet. With Hints to Gentlemen on the Art of Fascinating. By Mrs. Lola Montez. Illustrated by Numerous Cuts. Full Page of Ideal Figures. New York: Rudd & Carleton. For sale by W. B. Keen, Chicago.

Lola has blown her own trumpet so effectually that there is little to be said about her book. It is not a very valuable contribution to the literature of the country, nor do we conceive that it is calculated greatly to increase our general stock of beauty, but it is rather a racy production, and will probably sell on the principle of having been mostly stolen from other writers on the same subject.

Delays of the Press and Tribune—Prospects in McDonough.

MACOMB, Ill., Sept. 20, 1858.

Editors Press and Tribune:

From some cause, wholly unaccountable to us Republicans hereabouts, it happens that notwithstanding we are in the regular receipt of our paper at other times, the numbers containing the joint discussions between Messrs. Lincoln and Douglas, fail to arrive at the proper time. The number containing the discussion at Jonesboro due here on Monday, and the number containing the Charleston discussion, due last evening, failed to arrive at that time—the Times in the meantime coming regularly. The consequence is, that we who are anxious to peruse the speech, are compelled either to read from the Times report garbled, mutilated and distorted as they are, or await the tardy arrival of the mails containing the correct and reliable report. We say we know of no just reason why the PRESS AND TRIBUNE should not arrive with as much regularity as does the Douglas organ. We are not Yankees or we might be permitted to guess at the reasons. We have no doubt but our Douglas friends would much prefer that the Americans, Old Line Whigs and doubtful Republicans (we have none of the latter here) would get their first impressions of the speeches from Douglas' own organ, the Times. No blame, we are satisfied, attaches to the proprietors of your paper, nor do we think your Postmaster is to blame. The delay is evidently on the mail route between Chicago and this place. In a "free" we are forced to the conclusion that our papers are purposely withheld by Douglas route agents and Douglas employees, in order to suppress the speeches correctly reported in your paper, and as stated above, forced to swallow the Times mangled and imperfect version. We do not find fault with our Douglas friends for employing any and all fair means to secure his reelection to the U. S. Senate, but their cause, indeed must be a hopeless one when they resort to such meanness and dishonesty as this to accomplish their purpose.

The Douglasites in this part of the country are evidently becoming very much alarmed at the dismal prospect of reelecting the little dodger to "my place" in the U. S. Senate. The prospects are brightning every day for Abe Lincoln. His friends are becoming more sanguine and hopeful of success, and are working more zealously than ever for the success of our glorious principles. On last Saturday the Republicans held their County Convention, and put in nomination Mr. C. R. Hume for Representative, and a better choice could not possibly have been made. We intend to elect him without any trouble, as he will unite the whole Republican, Americans and Old Line Whig forces. After the nominations were made we had the pleasure of listening to a very able address from our old friend Hon. O. H. Browning of Quincy, in which he discussed fully and satisfactorily the issues between the Douglas and Republican parties. McDonough County may be put down for Old Abe, and the 5th District for Jackson Grimshaw. Yours, McDONOUGH.

[In regard to the delays and detentions of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE above named, we have received a dozen letters within a week making similar complaints. With the exception of last Tuesday morning, when our forms were "pied," the PRESS AND TRIBUNE has been regularly mailed for three months past.—EDS. P. & T.]

Letter from Minnesota.

A Rural Town—Politics—Scarcity of Douglas Democrats—Political Complexion of Minnesota —Corn, Stubble—Planting Excuse—Long Continued Editor fallen into Reveries, Philosophizes, and Fishes—Empty Honors of Editorial Life —Capture of a Gang of Horse Thieves.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

CHATFIELD, Min., Sept. 16, 1858.

I am spending a few days in one of the finest villages of Southern Minnesota. It is really a rural town—no scream of the locomotive is heard to frighten the native birds from their peaceful possessions in the limitless forests; the steamboats are forty miles distant—I haven't seen yet a young lady with hoops. I am still further convinced that this is a rural town from the fact that but few newspapers reach the place loaded with the "Shocking Accidents," and "Exciting Political Discussions," which keep the people of our large towns in a continual excitement. I have seen but one paper—except the village issue—since I came here, and that was a copy of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE of the 10th inst., containing a full account of the meeting of the National Democracy at Springfield, and the terrible scourging which Henry Fitch and Dr. Leib gave Stephen A. Douglas. It is said that no one can say such hard things against a criminal as he who turns State's evidence. This has proved so in the case of Leib against Douglas.

In this town is located the United States Land Office, and in the office are two or three more or more of Government officials, who are as much afraid of speaking a word against James Buchanan, or expressing preference for Douglas, as the Papist to breathe a word against His Holiness the Pope. It is a remarkable fact that though nearly every man in the place is somewhat of a politician, such an animal as a Douglas Democrat cannot be found. The people are pretty nearly divided in this Fillmore County, between the Republicans and Democrats. There is no doubt an Anti-Lecompton feeling exists among the Democrats here, but if it should be expressed the Land Office would be immediately removed and the town would go down—for it is kept up by the principal business.

Nothing is talked of here but land. The dry goods stores are all land offices, and even over grocery and drug establishments you will see in large letters "Land entered on time, land warrants for sale," &c.

I am not so well posted in regard to the politics of Minnesota as you may be, Messrs. Editors, but it does not take a prophet's vision to tell what the political tendencies of this young State are. Although the Democrats in the Legislature last winter had a small majority, the Republicans, if they continue to work as they are now working, will have a large majority by the next session. A gentleman told me on the street yesterday—pointing to two members of the Senate who were passing—that he spent over a hundred and fifty dollars in electing them, but would give twice that sum if they would stay at home.

As a politician, Gen. Shreidais spoken of here with contempt. I was surprised to learn this, as I had supposed him somewhat popular among his constituents. Sometimes the mention of Shields as a soldier will awaken a little enthusiasm, but as a statesman—the least said the better, so say some of his best friends.

But leaving political subjects, let me tell you of the glorious sport myself and a brother quill had a few days since on a fishing excursion. It was a splendid morning. The clouds had just scattered after a heavy shower, and the big raindrops still hanging to the leaves shone in the sun's rays like jewels in a coronet. Arming ourselves with poles, we sallied forth through the forest over the hills, still on, till all the mills on a pasture-fat brook never rise to swim below mill dams. The bait we use is beef. Grasshoppers are better, but it is too hard work to catch them; so in goes a small piece of beef attached to a hook, and we stand back under the shady trees grasping that fishing rod, our thoughts go back to that old mill stream under the hill, where the speckled trout when a boy; and the skies shone brighter then than now, the birds—ah! we never have heard songs like theirs—and the laughing brook went dancing on its way, keeping time to our glad spirits, which

"—flew in feathers then."

'Tis strange how the dream of our youthful days will make children of us again; but as we stood by the old trysting tree, we forgot some of our childhood's days; and as gleams of sunshine with now and then a cloud passed before our vision; as the form of dead companions who tired in life's race and passed under the sod came up before us, we could not prevent the moisture which would gather under the eye-lids. Just then a fish jerked at the other end of our line, which told us that one of the finny tribe wished to communicate with us. Our reverie was broken, our mind dispelled, and with one mighty effort we threw upon the grass a glittering, shiny speckled trout weighing something less than ten pounds. Again our hook was baited and our fingers grasped the rod, and we went into another reverie. Now the rod was a pen in our hand. We were dashing off a leader—a scorcher, no doubt, which would burst Douglas to a crisp, or wither Buchanan; we thundered all the pro-slavery hosts; Lincoln was elected; everybody else was elected; and we were having a glorious gloriefication—when jerk went the line and out came another fish. The sport became so exciting we found no more time for reveries, and after scratching our hands, rending our clothes, and innumerable other ills, we found our way back to the hotel in time to eat for supper the nicest trout that ever tickled the palate of an epicure.

It may be a fine thing to be the editor of an influential paper—to be looked up to as the leader in one's town—to be patted on the shoulder and called a good fellow when a few are wanted off you—but "a life in the woods give me"—where, though the people are simple, they are honest and true. To tell you the truth, brethren of the quill, I would rather have one mess of fine trout, such as we caught the other day, than all the comfort one can derive from editing a political paper in Illinois. The fact is, after getting the fish you have the pleasure of eating them, but in working for a party you get a great many promises and realize nothing. Am I right?

As I close my letter, the sheriff and his posse are bringing into town a gang of horse thieves, which they have just caught. The officers have been on their track all day, and there is much rejoicing in town at their success.

Fraternally yours, J.

Shocking Murder and Suicide.

A woman named Schelling, at Groveport, Franklin County, Ohio, murdered four of her own children, and then committed suicide, yesterday morning. She threw the children (one boy and three girls,) into a well, thirty-five feet deep, and then plunged in herself. All were drowned. The oldest of the children was twelve, and the youngest two years old. She is supposed to have been maddened to this awful crime by jealousy.—Toledo Blade, 24th.

NEWS FROM THE NEW EL DORADO.

The Effect of Gold Mining upon the Prosperity of Kansas.

[Special Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

LAWRENCE, Sept. 15, 1858.

For about four years Kansas has occupied a central position, and filled a large page in the political history of our country. Just at the time when the final seal was given to our political security, the news is borne from the distant mountains on our western slope, that gold—the glittering, tempting prize—is found in paying quantities in the vicinity of Cherry River, and in a more sparse degree around Pike's Peak. With the speed of lightning the glad news was sent across the continent, and already new trains are fitting out in this city, and at Leavenworth and Kansas City, for the diggings. The papers have already contained several authentic statements, made by gentlemen who have recently returned to Kansas City for a new supply of men and provisions. Those gentlemen found gold in abundance on the south branches of the Platte, near the boundary line between Kansas and Nebraska. From some cause, the Lawrence party, that left in June for Pike's Peak, have not yet found things as favorable as reported by other companies. They have explored but little yet, except around the Peak, and it seems they have recently been led on a wild goose chase some distance from their encampment to a region where sulphate of iron is found, that was said by a Mexican to be the pure gold. Two letters, not yet published, have just been received from them, from which I clip the following:

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER DATED PIKE'S PEAK, ROCKY MOUNTAINS, AUG. 9, 1858.

"In a former letter I wrote you that three of our party were about starting with a Mexican to a locality about six days' journey from our camp, where there was an abundance of 'yellow ore,' which to him, in his own language, 'looked just like gold.' From the description he gave of it we were almost confident it was the long sought-for material. You may judge what our feelings were during their absence. Perhaps something similar to those of a devoted lover kneeling at the feet of his mistress, awaiting the happy, soul-inspiring answer, 'yes,' or the terrible, horrifying 'no!' Our suspense was yesterday ended by the appearance of our little party. We crowded around them, every countenance bright with the hope of good news; but how sudden the change from hope to bitter disappointment when they informed us that the yellow ore was nothing more than a bright iron ore, mingled with some crystalized substance. * * *

"The question now arises, where shall we go next? Some are in favor of going over to Platte River to prospect, as there has been some gold found there already. The only objection to that move is that it is too late in the season to prospect with success, as the snows may set in early. I think a majority will be in favor of going down to Spanish Peak, about 120 miles south, in New Mexico. We have heard that there are very good diggings down there, but as to the truth we know not. If we go to the latter place and do not succeed, a majority will return to Kansas.

"A meeting was just held in camp, at which the vote was taken whether we should go to the Platte River or Spanish Peak. The vote stood 50 for the former and 25 for the latter. There was much dissatisfaction after the vote was taken, in consequence of which another meeting will be held in the morning. I anticipate the result, and think will be a vote in favor of Spanish Peak.

"We have had no trouble with the Indians up to this date, but presume no would if we were to stay here a couple of weeks longer, as there will be a large number of them up here on a hunting expedition about that time.

"There is a guerrilla party of nine or ten, headed by a desperado named Brown, that has been prowling around us for some time. They stampeded our cattle last week, but we recovered them after about ten miles hard ride."

The following is an extract from another letter, written by one of this same Lawrence party, and inclosed in the same envelope with the preceding one.

"Our mail train leaves again this morning, and I am happy to have an opportunity of sending you a few lines.

"We were joined on the 7th inst. by seven 'boys' from Burlington. We were very glad, as you may suppose, to see anyone from the civilized world, but, much to our disappointment and sorrow, they brought us no mail or important news, except the sad and lamented intelligence that Joe Shiking, which created quite a sensation in our camp.

"We have had pleasant times ever since we started on this trip, with the exception of half the hardships we anticipated; but, I am sorry to say it, we have done but little prospecting, and have followed up every wild-goose story that we have heard. As yet we have found gold in almost every place which we have prospected, but in fine particles, and not sufficiently rich to justify us in squatting and going into the business, especially so, as there are so many flattering stories in circulation of rich mines. The yellow ore—as I suppose she letter in which this is inclosed informed you—turned out to be a grand humbug."

Amateurs, more versed in the arts than the untutored Mexican, have also mistaken the salts or sulphurets of iron for gold, under less rural circumstances. There can be no doubt that they will find the El Dorado if they go North, towards the Platte, where the other companies have been prospecting. We shall hope to hear by the next letter that such is their decision.

To Kansas this is a most important discovery, that will soon rise above a chimera, even with the most incredulous. It promises to open a new State on the Rocky Mountain slope, where heretofore the wild Indian has roamed undisturbed, that will attract a large share of the tide of western emigration, and soon improve the markets, and quicken the enterprise of Eastern Kansas. Our cities will grow denser—our farmers will become more independent—the hum of business will resound with much more eclat and uniformity; money will begin to circulate, and everybody will bless the day that the gold region was opened along that mountain chain.

The U. S. District Court, in and for the body of Douglas County, commenced its session at this place yesterday, before the newly appointed Judge Elmore, the illustrious successor of the illustrious predecessor, Judge Cato, renowned for hard drinking, as well as a hard skull and hard-heartedness in general. Judge Elmore presides with much dignity, and in a very creditable manner. This will be a very short term, as there are only eleven cases on the docket. Of late the Probate Court has had co-ordinate jurisdiction in all civil cases, and therefore but few cases are carried up to the District Court. One fact is worthy of remark here. This is a Grand Jury term, and it was expected that complaint would be made before them for a bill against James H. Lane, for the crime of murder; but on looking over the panel, it appears that they are mostly the friends of Lane, who would refuse to find a bill against him—that is, out of nineteen, it is said, no twelve of them would thus agree, therefore it is not probable that any complaint will be made during this term. Fatality seems to be the omnipotent than favoritism, in these times. Lane appears within the Bar, and is employed as attorney in several cases now pending. Ex-Governor Shannon also practices regularly, and is regarded as one of the ablest counsel in Kansas. He has in a measure redeemed his past profligate history, and it is said he has become strictly temperate in his habits.

The project of an immediate organization of the Republican party seems to have the favor of only a minority, and it is believed by the masses that the mission of the Free State party will not be ended until we are admitted a free State into the Union. For that they will pray ever, until the object is achieved—not under the Leavenworth Constitution, but a new one, in every respect popular, and legally formed and adopted. VIDI.

Accident from Malicious Mischief on the Ill. Cent. R. R.

MANTOVA, Ill. Sept. 23, 1858.

Editors Press and Tribune:

Last night, as the train from Dunleith was approaching this place, about twelve o'clock, one mile and a half north, it was suddenly thrown down an embankment of about thirty feet. The locomotive, tender, baggage and two passenger cars ran off the track, and were thrown over and over. The third and last passenger car was not thrown off the track.

No one was seriously injured except the fireman, who it is feared is fatally. He was taken back to Amboy last night.

The wood work of the locomotive, the baggage and two passenger cars, after the accident, were completely destroyed by fire.

The train was under headway of about forty miles an hour; the grade at that place was about forty feet to the mile. Upon examination, it appeared that some rascals had withdrawn with a crowbar all the spikes from the rails on one side of the track for the length of two rails, and the rails only slightly misplaced to prevent discovery. The steam on the locomotives at this place is usually shut off, the momentum carrying the trains nearly into town. The motion of the cars caused the rail liberated to move, and consequently the train was thrown down the embankment.

What object the miscreants could have for doing this mischief, endangering so fearfully human life, can be only conjectured. No other part of the road for forty miles from this place could have been selected for so terrible results. It is a marvel that no more were injured in the catastrophe.

Yours, &c.,
SHERIDAN.

Dr. Christie's Agne Balsam,—The cry of the aged and the cry of the young are heard alike; everybody is delighted at its action, and therefore Baths and Washes, Ointments, Liniments, and all other Balsams are laid aside.
The fever and ague is here quite rapid also, and therefore it is our duty to call the attention of the people to one of the greatest remedies of the age for all Bilious Diseases, Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb
Ague, &c. Unlike nearly all similar preparations, it does not contain poisonous substances, and it can be administered to all ages and classes without injurious results.
Do not be deceived by the many worthless imitations which are on several articles by that name which are exciting public attention. Get the original inventor. See Advertisement.

Swayne's Fluid Extract of Buchu, an Infallible remedy for the Fever and Ague and the various forms of Bilious Diseases. Immediate, Immediate, Immediate. Dumb Ague, having their origin in malarial, as of very fertile and marshy districts, prepared by Dr.
J. S. Swayne, Druggist and Chemist, and sold by Sawyer, Price 1 Oz., No. 16 Lake street, Chicago.
This remedy is prepared entirely from vegetable substances, and contains no mercury, arsenic, or anything that can prove injurious to the system. Its effects are those of a soothing and gentle, well regulated action upon the healthy action of the Liver and Stomach, whose functions are so generally impaired in this class of diseases.
Quinine and other drugs serve only in many cases to break the chills, but do not remove the diseases of the Liver and other organs implicated, on which the chill
and Fever depend; hence the medicines of the Fluid Extract of Buchu" (particularly in the region where Fever-and Ague cannot be readily committed), which contains all its qualities suited to the indications of these maladies.
Hundreds of testimonials in regard to the efficacy of its medicine in the cure of every variety of Fever and Ague can be seen at the Agency, and will be given to the proprietor—but he does not make use of them as he prefers to have the medicine introduced itself merely by its merits.

Dyspepsia and Piles.—Dr. O. Phillips
BROWN, The Great Cure of Consumption, was for several years so badly afflicted with Dyspepsia that for a part of the time he was confined to his bed, was eventually cured by a prescription furnished him by a young clairvoyant girl. This prescription, given in its mere child, while in a trance, has cured everybody who has taken it. Dyspepsia and Piles I can easily as nails in cases of Piles as Dyspepsia. The ingredients may be found in any Drug Store. I will send this prescription to any person who sends me twenty cents in money or postage. Address DR. O. PHILLIPS BROWN,

Charles' London Cordial Gin.—The Original and only London Gin Imported. This Gin, distilled in London from Juniper Berries, under the supervision of the well known Excise Laws, is delicately flavored with a tincture of the Italian Juniper Berry, and some of the most valuable properties of the Vegetable Kingdom, rendering it in the whole of the most wonderful medicinal aces, the purest and most attenuant or diuretic drink in use.
It is a delicious tonic, of a soft and delicate flavor, differs entirely from any other Gin, and devoid of that hot, acrid taste, which renders the article known as Dutch Gin or Schnapps so objectionable.

by physicians generally in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Disease of the Kidneys, Chills, Fever and Ague, Sickness, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, the Kidneys and the Bowels, Nervous Debility, &c., whilst the writer can attest by its adoption as a sure relief from those distressing maladies which frequently attend the debilitate constitution.
Dr. Valentine Mott, of New York, the highest medical authority, pronounces Charles' London Cordial Gin "not an imposter in any other, but the best article of the kind he has ever seen."
It is peculiarly adapted to settlers in the Southern and Western States, as well as for travellers exposed to changes of water and air.

More about Thurston——A Faint Hope of his Being Still Alive.
The Detroit Free Press is of opinion, from the appearance of the balloon, and the testimony of persons who saw it as it neared the earth, that Thurston did not fall from it on the passage.
We quote:
The stories that are circulated in regard to the landing of the balloon would lead us to infer in a manner as to render it inevitable that the occupant must have fallen off, are, like other rumors which are daught up by persons who have not sufficient intelligence to ascertain the facts, entirely untruthful.
The theory that best elucidates the matter is, that the balloon took nearly a direct course from the starting point, crossing Detroit River near Malden, and striking the south shore of Lake St.
Clair, about five miles above Belle River. Here
the inhabitants first give accounts of its appearance. They state that it skirted along the shore, at times so low down that it nearly touched the tops of the trees. Some saw a man upon it, who had a handkerchief tied around his head, and others averred that it was a small boy. The distance accounts for the latter statement, which was given our reporter by the attendant of a windmill several miles above Baptiste Creek.
Many spoke of seeing his feet move up and down as though cramped. The balloon skirted the shore of the lake for several miles, very low down, and then passed over the immense marsh that lies about the mouth of the Thames River and Baptiste Creek. In doing this, it kept at its direct course, the marsh running in upon the land for several miles in the shape of a bay. This marsh is some ten or fifteen miles in extent, and in many places is impassable except by boats.
The balloon was lost sight of by the inhabitants by reason of the trees tops, which hid it from view, but in a short time after it was seen to rise with great power to such a height as to be almost invisible. At this time it was nearly over the light-house at the mouth of the River Thames. It then gradually floated inland several miles, and was finally upward, where it was secured. The only solution of these facts is the supposition that the balloon descended on the marsh, where Mr. Thurston abandoned it, choosing to trust himself to any species of locomotion rather than continue his ride through the air.
Mr. Bannister has been laboring under a conviction that the disappearance was a spiritualist at Adrian were true, and that he should find Mr. Thurston in a fisherman's shanty on the bank of the lake. Some circumstances tended to fasten this conviction upon his mind, as he approached the spot where the descent was made,
and he went over to the marsh under a strong hope that his mission would be in every respect successful. He could not found this spiritual-revelations were very different from existing facts, and that mediums were very far from being reliable prophets. He returned by Detroit yesterday in a very desponding state of mind, and was here met by several gentlemen from Adrian, who at once persuaded him to return with them to the marsh and institute a thorough and personal search. There is little hope of finding the body of Mr. Thurston, as the marsh is very large, and will require a long search to find any object that is not visible from the whole extent. The body will be concealed in the tall grass, which will prevent it from floating ashore,
and will sink where it lies after a long exposure to the air.
Mr. Thurston is an old seronaut, and is said to have been a man of the utmost coolness and self-possession in all circumstances. The fact that he went off with the balloon without the least evidence of fear or excitement is sufficient proof of this. Another circumstance that tends to make such a conclusion the fact of his living through such an adventure was, that the balloon did not ride steadily and evenly, as is usual when the balloon is undisturbed by proper ballast. It rolled and whirled very much, as is testified by Mr. Bannister, who watched it for nearly an hour after it went off. The Frenchmen on the lake shore describe the same movement, and say that with every roll of the balloon the seronaut swung fifteen to twenty feet through the air, back and forth. The chances for security in so terrible a position are so great that the blood runs cold to think of it. Sea-sickness must have followed such continued motion, producing the utmost exhaustion, as compared upon that malady, and the exhaustion which follows.
Mr. Bannister says that Mr. Thurston was slightly sick when he left the first mansion, when the car was attached, and the motion very slight. What must have been his feelings when overtaken by the nauseous malady, suspended miles from the earth, and tossed about like a chip on the waves of the stormy sea, with nothing but a little board as large as a dinner plate, sustained by a tissue of frail silk, between him and death. "Come here and let us down;
we're famished frozen!" Mr. Atchison speedily perceived the astonishing nature of the case, mustered help, cut away several limbs of the tree, and drew the car in safely to the ground!
The little boy was first lifted out, and when placed upon his feet instantly ran for several yards, then turned, and for a moment complained the balloon with apparently intense curiosity. The little girl told their sorrows and adventures with an almost broken heart, to those people, who,
strangely indeed, had not heard of the disaster.
A messenger arrived at Mr. Harvey's, eighteen miles distant, at 3 P.M. with the transporting tidings that the children were safe. We will leave it to our readers to imagine the joy which the intelligence caused. It was late in the afternoon when the little ones arrived and were clasped once more in the embrace of their parents.
The happy result was received in Centralia, and announced on Sunday morning in the churches amid ecstasies of joy. The children were brought there on Monday, and welcomed with the firing of cannon and a general jubilee.
Photographic portraits of them were taken by Mr. William H. Matthews, artist, in Centralia, and a variety of presents were made to them.
The girl is named Martha Ann, and her little brother David Isam. She says that he soon grew himself to sleep, and that she cried till she slept a little, said then she awakened in the true.
Mr. Brooks affirms that the balloon must have descended by eleven o'clock on Friday night, and hence had remained in the tree till its discovery through the kindness of "the blazing star," and the astronomical wakefulness of Mr.
Atchison.

MONEY, &c.—There is no change in money matters. Eastern Exchange remains steady at 1 per cent. prem. Gold 1@1½c. Discounts easy for short business paper, at 10 per cent. per annum.

The New York banks, it is estimated, hold fifteen millions of the thirty millions of Government loan and Treasury notes which have been issued. But for this avenue of investment, the loans of these institutions would stand at about the same amount as at this time last year, after a sharp contraction which had reduced the line some $14,000,000.

Regarding the suspension of Chubb & Co., Washington City, the Star of the 21st, of that city, says:

After the Star went to press yesterday, the well known firm of Chubb & Co., in this city, suspended payment. We apprehend that the cause of this disaster may be traced to their successful exertions to stem the general financial storm of last year, when their house was the depository of from ten to twenty times as much of the money of our fellow citizens of the District of Columbia as at present. For six months past they have for the most part declined deposits, which accounts for the fact that their liabilities for the deposits of individuals in the District of Columbia are not more than between $15,000 or $16,000.

We are informed that they expect to arrange for the settlement of that indebtedness so promptly as that no assignment on their part will be called for or needed. They will continue their commission business, we hear, as usual.

We sincerely trust that this favorable representation concerning the state of their affairs in this quarter may prove true to the letter, for they deserve infinite credit for the manner in which last year they made sacrifices to pay every demand on them, when others in similar business were falling around them, and when a failure on their part would have injured this community perhaps to the extent of $300,000. Of their local unsecured indebtedness, not more than $1,000, it is said, is to business men of the District of Columbia.

COMMERCIAL.—The attendance on 'Change to-day was good. The Flour market remains steady. Shipping brands of spring extra and superfine are in good request; choice brands of spring extra and winter dull and heavy. About 500 bbls extra and superfine was sold at a range of $4.25@4.55 for the former, and $3.75 for the latter.

The Wheat market was a shade firmer, especially for Winter, which advanced ½@1c. Sales were made at $1.13 for No. 1 White in store in upper warehouses; that in the lower warehouses was firm at $1.15@1.16. At the close there was a very active demand for White, and holders advanced their figures. No. 1 Red was also in demand at $1.07@1.08 in store; No. 2, 97@97½c—the bulk of the sales being made at the the latter figure. Spring Wheat was in fair demand at 74@74½c—closing quiet but firm; Rejected Spring, 58@58½c. The sales foot up:—50,000 bu Winter, and 43,000 bu Spring.

The receipts of Corn continue light, with an active inquiry for upper qualities. About 80,000 bushels changed hands at 58½@59½c afloat for Canal and River; 57@58c in store for small lots of No. 1 Railroad, and 60c f. o. b. for two full cargoes of the same quality; 54½c for No. 2; and 51c for Rejected in store—the market closing firm.

The Barley market was more active to-day, though prices are a shade lower for No. 2. Choice Barley is scarce and in demand.

The Provision market remains quiet. About 500 bbls Mess Pork, city packed, changed hands to-day at $15—to be shipped immediately to Canada. There is very little Lard in the market—held at 10½c. Contracts for future delivery are offered at 9½c.

Freights are steady at 4c for wheat and 3c for corn to Buffalo; 6½c for corn and 6¾c for wheat to Oswego.

The Cincinnati Gazette of the 23d says:

Under continued favorable advices from the East, our market for Flour is buoyant, and a farther advance of 10c per bbl was established to-day. Wheat is in good demand, and prices are firm. No increase in receipts. Corn is steady at 57c for mixed. Oats 55c, with a fair demand. No change in Barley. There is no particular change in Provisions. Prices are irregular.

The St. Louis Republican of yesterday says:

Three hhds of new crop sugar arrived in this city on the 20th inst., and sold at 9c. This is nine days earlier than the first lot was received last year.

THE BRITISH CORN TRADE.

[From the Mark Lane Express, Sept. 6.]

The weather of the past week has been varied. Some complaints are made of the condition of the late gatherings as a consequence; but the wheat crop has been got in very favorably. And later accounts of the yield are more in its favor, while the large stacks prevailing only prove an abundance of straw. The fine autumn, open winter and dry spring, which preserved the thick set plants, being followed by a heavy fall of rain just before blooming time, with great heat subsequently, forced the growth, and rendered it impossible that such a show of wheat ears, with tropical heat, should make a quantity of grain equal to last year's growth. Yet in some localities, where the plants were not so thick, the yield as well as quality, is fine. In others, as numerous samples show, they are thin, and reported very deficient. Till the machine and flail have done more service, we may be content to rest with something like an average crop. The deficiency and high prices, however, of spring corn is bringing wheat meal into use for cattle feed; and, with an increased population, it is not so certain that an equal foreign supply will be forthcoming as the last season produced. Europe could not forward it. And though the American harvest is much better gathered than in 1857, it appears not beyond an average, with a range of prices for fine-quality wheat and flour that will serve at least for a time, to keep exports very moderate. Our own markets have been better supplied in the country, and those who have felt the times may still be glad to turn the leading article into money; but some places already show more tone. Potatoes are daily reported worse and worse; and many pieces, even of medium early sorts, that began clear and handsome, are going off very fast. Should there be much more rain, which for many purposes is greatly needed, the late ones, we fear, will follow, and seriously reduce the general abundance. No particular features occur in the foreign markets.

The sales of Wheat noted last week were 84,399 qrs., at 42s 6d against 92,646 qrs. at the corresponding period in 1857.

The London averages were 5,707 qrs. at 48s 6d.

The imports of Wheat and Flour into the principal ports of Great Britain for the week ending August 25th were 91,679 qrs.

The Liverpool market, on Tuesday, was moderately attended, and the prices of both Wheat and Flour, for picked lots, rather dearer. On Friday the trade was dull for inferior Wheat, but the best qualities were unchanged. Fine Flour was more in demand at 6d per brl. and sacd more money. Old Oats and Meal were steady; new, rather cheaper. Beans fully maintained their value, and Indian Corn was dull and neglected.

The country wheat markets were mostly so steady and similar in their reports, that particulars seem unnecessary; it was, however, observable generally that many, though better supplied, did not give way in prices, while some evinced more tone. Reports show much greater diversity as to the yield, and to make an accurate judgment without better statistics seems well nigh impossible. We cannot help thinking it would serve the agricultural interest should should it be forthcoming, as imagination or surmise often exceeds the facts of the case, and in this country there is no government coercion to sell. New oats have rather yielded in price in the country in the course of the week, but other spring corn has ruled firm.

In Scotland they have been getting on favorably with the harvest, but potatoes show disease. Glasgow, with a good attendance, reported a slight advance in fine Wheat, viz., 6d ⅌ 240 lbs., barrel Flour being also against buyers. Old oats, as well as beans and peas were firm, but new were 6d per boll easier.

The Irish accounts were quite in favor of the crop of wheat, but not of oats or barley. Potatoes since the 17th ult. have partially suffered from disease. Dublin prices have not been altered. Wheat at Waterford, with an increased delivery, was 6d per barrel dearer. Indian Corn also ruled 3d to 6d per barrel higher, and oats were firm. At Cork oats were 6d per barrel dearer, wheat and maize being in good demand.

It is constructed in a neat, simple, thorough scientific manner, and its advantages are that it makes deliciously fragrant coffee, even if used by unskillful hands, and retains all the aroma of the berry, that usually escapes in steam when cooked in the old-fashioned way. The draught which it makes is nectar compared with that of old-time coffee-pots." Also—Wrig t's Patent Filter for screwing on to the Hydrant. Price, $2.50. LIGHT!! MORE LIGHT!! EVERY FAMILY THEIR OWN GAS MAKER. NO CHEMICAL HUMBUG. THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE MADE EXtensive arrangements for supplying any store, public house or private dwelling in the city or suburbs with J. W. Smith's New Patent Gas Generator. By means of this exceedingly simple, cheap and convenient arrangement, any family can have, at a cost not to exceed one-fourth the cost of the city gas, a gas far more brilliant and white, and not at all offensive. This is none of the chemical humbugs with which the country is flooded, but genuine Gas, manufactured by means of a simple apparatus (lately patented) made to attach to any gas pipe, to be used with ordinary gas burners. THINGS YOU WILL AVOID BY USING THIS GAS. 1st—Three-fourths of all expense. 2d—All offensive odor. 3d—Uncertain and poor light. 4th—The annoyance of defective metres, monthly bills, advance deposits, &c. The following are among the many certificates we have from those using this Gas: Washington City, D. C., July 1st, 1858. This may certify that we have been using John W. Smith's Portable Gas Generator, to light our store, which has 10 burners, using from 4 to 6 feet per hour to each burner, making the gas every night as we want it. We find this new invention to be a valuable one, for economy, safety and brilliancy it by far exceeds every other light we have ever used. Our gas bill from the Gas Company in this city averaged $20 per month, while this (Smith's) Gas has not cost over $4 or $5 a month, and producing a much stronger and purer light. Our experience with it since the 1st of February last, warrants us in recommending it to all that may wish a cheap and safe light. E. TUCKER & BRO., Pennsylvania avenue.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—The undersigned are now using in their store, 74 State street, one of J. W. Smith's Portable Gas Generators, and from experiments carefully made by us we are well satisfied that the cost of gas made by this apparatus will not exceed one-fourth the expense of the city gas for an equal number of burners, the capacity of the burners being equal. The light is also whiter and more brilliant, and not offensive in smell. The apparatus is exceedingly simple and cheap, and the process of making the gas within the comprehension of the most ordinary mind, all of which facts we shall be happy to demonstrate to any person who may wish, by their calling at our store, 74 State street, at any time between eight o'clock A. M. and nine o'clock P. M. BEECHER & POWELL. Chicago, July 18th, 1858. Office for the sale of Rights of Dwellings or Counties at room No. 3, up-stairs, 78 Dearborn street. BLAKE & CO.
